

News News 12 Long Island

Comments Tweet 0 +1 Pin it

Roslyn Heights photographer Xiomaro shoots 'secrets' of Sagamore Hill

Originally published: June 30, 2014 11:46 AM
Updated: July 10, 2014 5:00 AM

The North Room where TR met with dignitaries, heads of state, and other political leaders. The room was designed by TR to impress. Here, it is nearly empty (few furnishings, flags hanging from ceiling are gone, etc.) (Credit: Xiomáro, Sagamore Hill National Historic Site)

Numbers & Links

Secrets of Sagamore

Sagamore Hill National Historic Site ▶

Xiomáro's photography ▶

Related media

Extended interview with photographer Xiomaro

Photos from Xiomáro's 'How I Love Sagamore Hill' collection

Sagamore Hill

When Theodore Roosevelt's home at Sagamore Hill was closed for renovations, a Roslyn Heights photographer got a chance to shoot up-close in the house and document some of the secrets therein.

Theodore Roosevelt, the 26th president, is often remembered as the larger-than-life trust buster and Rough Rider. Xiomaro's photo series "How I love Sagamore Hill" shines a light on Roosevelt the family...

CONTENT PREVIEW

This content is exclusive for Optimum, Time Warner®, Comcast®, customers with access to News 12.

Already registered or an Optimum customer?

Time Warner®, Comcast® or Service Electric<sup>SM</sup> customer?

Not a customer?

Log in

Get access

Subscribe