

TOP STORIES

Married couple in serious condition after Bridgeport shooting

Family accuses Bridgeport school of ignoring bullying episodes
5:24 PM

Ridgefield... from birth c...

2 Fairfield students disciplined after slur caught on video
10/20/16

Photography exhibit highlights restoration of historic site in Wilton
5:20 PM

Police: Men steal ATM from Westfield Trumbull mall
10/20/16
CT Crime

Officials: Cigarette may have caused Stamford condo fire
10/20/16

Things To Do Around Connecticut
2:42 PM

Domestic violence survivors hold vigil in Greenwich
10/20/16

NEWS

Photography exhibit highlights restoration of historic site in Wilton

October 21, 2016 3:23 PM

For the exhibit called Weir Farm Restored, photographer Xiomaro took pictures of the Weir farmhouse while it was empty before restoration started.

HARTFORD - A photography exhibit currently on display at the state capitol not only celebrates the 100th anniversary of the National Park Service, but highlights the completion of a major project at the Weir Farm National Historic Site in Wilton.

For the exhibit called Weir Farm Restored, photographer Xiomaro took pictures of the Weir farmhouse while it was empty before restoration started.

Xiomaro then went back and retook the same shots after the restoration was completed.

He says the finished project is remarkable, and adds that photographing empty rooms was a unique challenge.

The Weir Farm Restored exhibit is at the captiol through next week. Xiomaro says he hopes it inspires people to visit Weir Farm.