Morristown National Historical Park, Morristown

Ford Mansion kitchen

May 19-December 28 • GEORGE WASHINGTON'S HEADQUARTERS: PHOTOGRAPHS BY XIOMÁRO. 22 large images of the Ford Mansion, Washington's Revolutionary War headquarters, that highlight its dual role as a residence. "The domestic aspects are easily lost in the presence of Washington, but Xio has managed to capture the Ford Mansion's essence as a home," explains curator Jude M. Pfister, the park's Chief of Cultural Resources.

Pfister is the author of the award-winning book, The Jacob Ford Jr. Mansion: The Storied History of a New Jersey Home (The History Press, 2009).

Xio has been commissioned by the National Park Service to create collections for parks in New Jersey, New York, Connecticut, and Massachusetts. "My impressions of MNHP highlighted to me how the various historic sites of the National Park Service form a tapestry of our nation's founding," explains the artist. "When I saw, for example, the kitchen and the traveling liquor box at Washington's Headquarters, it drew a visceral connection with kitchen and liquor box at the William Floyd Estate in New York (also part of the National Park Service at Fire Island National Seashore)."
